Kate Moss and Topshop have collaborated to design an eclectic capsule collection of effortlessly cool, signature pieces. Inspired by Kate's wardrobe, the range encapsulates her personal sense of style, and showcases key looks for the season ahead. The collection mirrors an edgy but playful attitude. A lean, typically rock silhouette sits next to vintage inspired, floral print tea dresses and bohemian, embroidered pieces.

Slinky lurex jersey and skinny washed denim will be summer festival staples. The 'Chrissie' drainpipes in red, indigo or black and cropped, mid-blue jeans are timeless. Fine, love-worn metallic vests are low-cut and sit under shrunken masculine blazers and waistcoats. Luxurious, butter soft leather jackets are cut to follow the contours of the body, but have relaxed, unfinished edges and ties. Androgynous, tailored pinstriped trouser suits and a cotton-twill mustard and black striped skinny trouser-suit offer a rebellious edge.

Hemlines are either sky-high or floor-sweeping. Denim hotpants and drummer boy shorts sit alongside floor-length bias cut skirts and dresses. Chain mail and shimmering mini dresses with racer backs are a great contrast to ink waistcoat-dresses and a bronze maxi skirt.

Dark, exquisite prints decorate dresses and perfect jersey basics. A delicate cream t-shirt wears a heavy, thorny illustration, with a 'K' intertwined among the flourishes. Birds of paradise, flowers and thorns are woven among heavy chains while a discrete monogram sits amongst the pattern.

The accessories and motifs that adorn this collection are quintessentially Kate. One-of-a-kind accessories bags like the riveted patent clutch, suede studded belts and embellished neck scarf evoke her signature style. Laced gladiator sandals and the eponymous knee-high suede 'Kate' boots are key. Reflecting Kate's tattoos, swallows are embroidered on waistbands while heart shapes appear on denim hems, lending a personal touch.

Bringing a more romantic feel to the collection, cocktail dresses in pleated midnight blue and a playful spotted cotton provide a feminine but sexy edge. A kaftan, vividly embroidered with salmon and white, and sorbet-pink and pewter bikinis lend an exotic feel as feather-weight chiffon dresses with bell sleeves and covered buttons carry the intricate and darkly romantic print.

Prices for Kate Moss Topshop range from £12 to £200. Denim pieces are from £50 Evening dresses from £60. Tailored jackets start at £60 and trousers from £50 Jersey starts at £12. A High Summer collection will follow and arrives in stores from June 2007.

Kate Moss comments: "I always been a huge fan of Topshop. I chose to work with them was because I was confident that they'd be able to interpret my ideas & designs in the right way. I've loved working with them, they've given me complete creative freedom throughout the process. The team's positive approach from the outset has made our partnership both enlightening and fun. I am excited to see my range launch in Topshop across the country on the 1st May."

Karyn Fenn and Mary Homer, Managing Directors of Topshop add: "We are delighted to be collaborating with Kate. She knows what every girl wants to wear. With her innate an hugely influential style coupled with our team's drive and experience we've created a unique and wearable collection for Topshop. We know our customers will love it!"

Sir Philip Green: "I was always confident that Kate's iconic style and insight into the fashion industry together with Topshop's ability to interpret would produce a truly special collection. I believe the public will agree that both the look and quality of the range clearly demonstrates Topshop & Kate's commitment to this ongoing partnership."

Storm: "Kate Moss and Topshop are a great fit – two true British style icons. Kate's talent for fashion has been evident for many years and we are delighted she has collaborated with Topshop to launch her collection"
